

Poetry Series

Alyssa Ewing
- poems -

Publication Date:
2008

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Alyssa Ewing()

I've been writing poetry since I was 11, I'm 15 now, and I'm still writing. It's one of my greatest passions and I love doing it.

Broken

Waiting all night and day
All it's bringing me is pain
There is so much more that I can say
My tears have been the pouring rain
You were there in all my dreams
All you did was make me wait
It's all falling apart at the seams
All love now turned to hate
You sat there and watched me cry
Nobody else could make me smile
All you did was sit and lie
Now my hearts in a pile
After all those things said to me
I know that we can no longer be

Alyssa Ewing

Lost Friend

Every time I'd sit and cry
Never once did he wonder why
Never once did I want to die
Every time I'd say goodbye.

What happened is in the past
It all happened so fast
But it finally ended at last
Now the time has come

He left me here standing still
My heart feels like it's on a hill
Making me feel really ill
But now my future I will fulfill

Alyssa Ewing

Pain And Misery

Filled with pain and sorrow
Making life hard to live
Not wanting to see tomorrow
All they have to do is forgive.

He makes her life harder to see
She doesn't know where to go
They have to see if they could be
She doesn't know how to say no.

After that one mistake
She didn't know how to live
Yet even with the heartache
All she wants is to forgive.

Alyssa Ewing

Trying To Smile

Trying to smile everyday
I know there has to be a way
Everything will soon be okay
There's so much more I want to say

Being with him I felt no fear
But I knew the time was near
I will now shed my final tear
And now the time is finally here

The tears I cried tastes tart
Now its time for our final part
Away from him I need to be
And now I've got the broken heart

Alyssa Ewing