

Poetry Series

charlene louisedenner
- poems -

Publication Date:
2012

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

charlene louisedenner(19/11/1992)

Hey,

I had a really rough childhood and ended up growing up in care, life has always been a struggle for me and many people ask how I've made it this far, writing has been my saviour all the poems I write is something I've felt or something I'm feeling at this moment in time I hope you all enjoy reading them :)

Addiction

Addiction leads to convictions then you've got restrictions contradicting yourself because your life's full of evictions it started with a line now you haven't got a dime running out of time just waiting to leave this life you pick up a needle your minds set that everyone's evil

charlene louisedenner

Deadbeat Dad

Deadbeat dad
always in newspaper ads all he's gained is a writing pad no love from his mother barely knows his daughter he was raised proper his life's built around coppers a man with no freedom the devil's walking stick appears in the shadows of his misty fears his life flashes by him that's when he realized his got no time left in him

charlene louisedenner

Determination

Determination becomes expectations explosions of emotions run deeper than the ocean motivation rotates so we never reach our fate the gate to our mind is something we never find we hide from fears to protect the tears no respect for their mother nor a brother bro's before hoes was the key-code our generation is ruined with no explanation reaching across the nation to find the answer to my question

charlene louisedenner

Don'T Give Up

Dont Give Up
dont look back nightmares turn into dreams tears turn into smiles emptiness turns into happiness dont be afraid to ask for help we all need a friend face your fears jump at every chance that comes by we take two steps back one step forward we all make it in the end growing stronger every second we've all had heart brakes falling flat to the ground searching for reasons to pain ashamed of the mistakes we've made we've all prayed given up on ourselves turning your back on the world hoping one day your see the light its far out of sight holding your head down tears streaming down our faces pull me up
i cant do this alone
we've all been there no more strength to go on keep strong
your going to make it
dont give up
ive been there myself
we're all doing this together promise yourself
your make your life better with each breath you take its only you
save you
its never to late dont be the person found in the lake your worth more!

charlene louisedenner

Fear's

Silent tears, hidden fears just as you think your pains starts to clear your nightmares appear your dreams unclear
is there a volunteer to walk in my shoes without fear
far or near take this away walls caving in on me surrounded by negative with a constant impound that i shouldn't be around my minds set that i belong in a burial ground

charlene louisedenner