

Poetry Series

Justin Valdez
- poems -

Publication Date:
2011

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Justin Valdez()

Dreaming

ino its reality, but im tryna take it slow but were burning out like batteries they told me you were out of my league but now i hold you tight and pray my arms never get weak they told me that we woldnt make it past the first month but now were looking forward to are year and a half now they tell me to that are love is rare i should treat her with care so i call her to tell her im thinking of her rapidly im so unworthy she should burn me out like a calorie just the thought of losing you is like i live in a dream but you always turn it around when you say we can overcome as a team

Justin Valdez

I Guess

At the time thoughts of you were cluttered in my mind i just kept tellin myself ill do fine

Ino some of the stuff that happen was wrong i couldnt help it my feelings were strong

All she heard was lies out my mouth its part of the reason i couldnt continue this route

But now i call her up every now and then so i guess that we can settle for friends

Justin Valdez

No We Cant Go Out

we cant go out cause your so homely we cant be friends or homies im sorry to leave you lonely im sorry i left you sore but being with you makes me poor

Justin Valdez

What Happened?

i remeber when you use to send notes to my locker now when i call you, you yell stalker i used to drive you crazy and call you my lady now are relationship is fadding everybody but you knows how i feel an only the loard knows when i will heal i dont think i can bare i thought that our love was rare now im staring into the distance cause im lost with out you feeling so hurrt that i could cry too

Justin Valdez