

Poetry Series

Lionessa carey
- poems -

Publication Date:
2013

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Lionessa carey()

Scream

I can talk calmly or speak sweet as springs morning breeze but in my head all i do is scream i scream at you to love me i scream at her to stop yelling i scream at the top of my lungs hoping the world will stop and pay attention to realize that words are not necassary we can be animals and speak with our behavior alone but yet no i have to contain my pain my anger my misery hoping that one day i wont loose it and the world will not see my ionner shame...scream scream all this screamiong and all i do i stay quiet on day all my screaming will stop..but when is just another idea of mine

Lionessa carey

Unnamed (You Can Comment And Suggest Names)

i am alone without a doubt i kneel before a grave filled with flowers meaningless pawns to express a grief only felt due to a timeless urge to feel apart of the group yet you feel nothing for the person lying within the coffin before you i am the one that holds all the power of grief and sadness on myself if time made me suffer like i am now i know i shall remain kneeling darkness surrounds my every thought but as i stare into the flower petals i wonder why must i be this way why must i be so full of sorrow is there a way to escape my pain the dark clouds rolling in above us tell me no but the bodys spirit near me says otherwise so as i kneel i shall pray then ask what am i going to do today

Lionessa carey

Why Me?

When i gaze out my window to other the other children playing laughing having all the fun i wonder why i can't be like that why i am trapped inside to forever be alone within myself when I'm struck in the face and the fiery sting of flesh on flesh connects the pain makes me wonder why me? what have i done to deserve this pain? i try and understand the other persons view but i don't get it why must must i be a prisoner live in my own personal hell just tell me why can't i be a normal socitey accepted teen instead of hidden unaccepted cutter who makes herself accepted by hurting herself if you were me i bet the only question would be like mine why me? why me?

Lionessa carey