

Poetry Series

Shah Samar Imtiyaz
- poems -

Publication Date:
2016

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Shah Samar Imtiyaz(21-09-1999)

A Scary Night

It was raining heavily and the wind was blowing with an extreme speed It was dark outside and the leaves of trees were making a scary noise as if dancing in the terror
The window of my room was located just above my bed location
As I looked outside the window, lying on my bed, suddenly the window got unlatched and got closed with a bang
It scared me
I pulled my blanket over my face, shaking in terror After sometime I felt sweating inside so I came out of the blanket I just had a nap and suddenly it started thundering as a result I woke up in terror and loneliness and curtained the window Huh! I sighed and tried to sleep back again as I was about to sleep a cloud bursted making an extreme sound as if of a bomb blast I stood up shouting Dad! Dad! Please save me!
And my dad came running to my room and held me in his arms, wiping my tears and telling me that I am a strong girl
As he hugged me
I felt every loneliness and terror vanishing away
I smiled and went to a sound sleep

Shah Samar Imtiyaz

The Best Ever Sleep

When you wake up by the sunshine falling on your eyes, you smile for its Friendship Day Looking outside the window you could feel your friend near even if its far away from you
You close your eyes for a moment and whisper, I miss you Looking at the sky and wondering that one of the cloud might had passed over your friends head
You feel overwhelmed with tears shining in your eyes
You could hear those beautiful voices of birds reverberating everywhere
You search for a hint in nature's beauty that your friend wants to tell you
And suddenly you see a pigeon on the rooftop as if singing a song for you Thus you conclude it by saying and believing, it might be your friend's message to wish you a Happy Friendship Day U smile and get back to sleep and that's The Best Ever Sleep in the world

Shah Samar Imtiyaz

What Was Our Fault Then

Becoming friends wasn't our fault,
They were our stupid hearts who wanted to be so Loving each other wasn't our fault,
They were again our stupid hearts who fell for each other Kissing each other wasn't our fault,
It was the fault of our stupid brain And what actually our fault was, you broke my trust, I kept loving you you broke my heart, I kept mending yours you left with her and I was left no where

Shah Samar Imtiyaz