

Poetry Series

young lass
- poems -

Publication Date:
2008

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive young lass(sep.18 1993)

i grew up in minniesota in a small town i'm a country girl. I enjoy trail riding writeing and sports. I'm in a play called show time on the showboat and i'm still in school. I want to write plays and books when i'm older hope it works out.

Sad Prince Charming

prince charming where are you right know i wish i'd have meant u fori feel like a ghost i sit here locked away waiting for the day when u come galloping my way prince charming your not there maybe no one cares about a princes like me i'm trapped and there's no place to flee prince charming you forgot to get me know i'm alone in a dungeon i call home with little to eat and no place to sleep

prince charming came to late now he's ashamed that he forgot about a princess he loved she still waits but now she waits up above

young lass