I Have Touched The Dream Of Me

So there was nothing to touch
There were only stones to touch
There was only wind to feel
There was no food to eat
There were many stars to see
But there was no one to play with me
There was me and only my dream
There was no one to call my name
There was no one to save me
There was no one to know what I am
There was only my dream and me
I have touched the dream of me....
