What Happend?

What happend to that person?

What happend? What happend to that person who always used to smile? What happend to that person who was sweet and caring? What happend to that person who was always happy? What happend? I'm sitting here with all these question on my head and I know that they will never be answered! I just have to accept that, that person who I used to laugh with and play with and talk to is dead! That person who was so nice vanished! And that person who was my Friend went to hell forever!

Imma miss the old you but now its time to move on! Even if it hurts.....Alot! !
