POET'S CREDO

Write poetry like there's nobody reading,
Love poetry like nothing else matters, Read another man's poetry as if it was written only for you,
And live poetry like it's heaven on earth.
All the rest, my readers, is a footnote.

...And God Said, 'Let There Be Light'

Beams of light, bright and straight Curve with intent, bent to create
And know themselves, in form manifest
This one an eagle, that one a nest.
The shortest of these beams decree
To become a creature, with its will still free.
So with half it's power it assumes
The form of man; and above it looms
The other half, its light unbound -
A soul with two feet on the ground.
Though not as grand as galaxies,
Of which it is a part
This shortest beam still remains
Closest to God's heart.

2 A.M. Feeding

Microwaved milk kisses my wrist
Warmed to sake my daughter's thirst.
How she clutches the bottle greedily Eyes shouting demurely, 'I come first, '
Her belly's bloated, the bottle's tossed.
My ransomed heart did she usurp
Her rightful throne's my collarbone
Her royal decree an effusive burp.
I tuck her in her mermaid sheets
Sing a 'Greensleeves' lulaby
My queen of hearts, my majesty
Who taught me who I am, and why.

2020 Is Looking A Little Fuzzy And I Can Use A Spritz Of Seltzer

2020, in the Chinese Year of the Rat, books are burned and Kindles are melted to limo in the overstretched era of the wordless,
the mindless,
the kinky,
the stylish.

Gresham's Law rules with an iron fist:
golden intellect has been debased by the meretricious flash of 3D coinage
available, for a limited time only,
on the Drone Shopping Network.

Gargantuan art and photography books grace the crystal meth tables of society glued in position by despotic interior designers and spot lit in pomegranate xenon (the new black) .
The finest salons are tenanted by a murder of celebrities, entourages, paparazzi,
rappers, thugs, rapper-thug-CEO's, aesthetes, hangers-on, sycophants, mediocre poets, would-be artists, pseudo-intellectuals, failed bloggers and dictators, diminutive in everything but their egos and lust for tiramisu.

Egypt and Rome are resurrected:
the myths,
the pantheons,
the fashion,
the cruelties.

Wait...haven't we seen this before... possibly, in one of those charred history books used to toast the marshmallows?
Nah, it wasn't there. In hindsight, it was in the HBO/Walmart/Google/Ebay/Apple miniseries, Hitler: Mein Kampf and Mein Dreidl,
available, for a limited time only,

on the Drone Shopping Network.

21 Days

Three Weeks gone. The days have cost Dearly when measured in dollars lost.
Yet in these 21 days my heart has yielded
A higher interest than our marriage was sealed with.

What percentage could gauge the greater gain
In love that money could only feign.
Insured I'm not against a loss. I must Confess I abide in a higher trust.

When this round of emotions has been spent,
Squandered on this mortal shell that I've been lent,
I can gladly turn to Time's usurer. And repay
His priceless loan of love—day by day.

4 Secrets Of Happiness I Recipe

Take one state of serene equanimity

cross with sincere contentment

combine with a lively curiosity temper with positive experience

quiver with Christmas-eve anticipation blend with a whirling passion alloy with unadulterated optimism

infuse with belly laughter

interweave with threads of joy manifest with an oomph of enthusiasm

mingle with eternal gratitude coalesce with a pinch of ecstasy couple with tender compassion whip up with childlike playfulness

drizzle with an April sun shower and fuse with unconditional love.

Put the mixture in your heart for one lifetime to set.

Serves humanity

II Unhappiness

I must feel my unhappiness
to create the void to fill with my happiness

I must feel my unhappiness
to make up my mind
to transform it into happiness.

I must feel my unhappiness
to create the rung in the ladder to push back on to elevate me into happiness.

III Love & Acceptance

Happiness is seeing the subtle hand of God
guiding your path.

It is accepting both fortune and misfortune as teachers and love

as its only lesson.

IV

Compassion

simple...

you die each day

for others

and when you wake up

refreshed

renewed reborn...

you die again

A Leaping Tale

At the prospect of your kiss my heart leaps, serenading silent night like a princely frog on his lily pad throne, yawning, yearning and beneath the mist draped moon, croaking,
"When will she come? When will she come? "
"But she has come, " answers the cricket.
"Where is she? Where is she? " the frog pleads.
"You're blind because you're looking for a princess, "
the cricket answers. "She's the frog on the lily pad right beside you. She's always been there, waiting oh so patiently for you to open your heavy lidded eyes."
The long lashed frog beside him winked and his eyes opened wide. It was love at 2nd sight, or maybe 3rd or 4th.
But it was true love (not that chick flick bullfrogshit) .
And they made love and made love and moved to a new pond, where they shared a larger pad with a view and a monthly mortgage and had tons of tadpoles and lived happily ever after.
Well, maybe not always happily. Sure, they had their ups and downs, argued over money and what schools to send their tadpoles to. But happy enough. Hey, they're only human.
If there's a moral to this leaping tale it is that for a tadpole to turn into a fulfilled and happy frog, he must grow up, lose his fairy tail ending - and open his eyes - wide - or he just may wind up croaking alone.

The End, or just maybe, The Beginning...

A Little Cathedral In Texas

To commemorate my centenary the Church has elevated me from a humble family parish to the status of a Cathedral!
My inner life and inner light are made one by the mighty stroke of His pen.
Can you feel it? I am more airy, more eerie, more awesome, more fit to entertain God watch His human stain amble through my glass, take their places in my narrow pews, and gossip about their neighbors.
Things will change now. I will tolerate Satan's idle talk no more, hear.
When they pass the plate, I will not listen to the petty jiggle of change;
Yessiree, every Sunday from now on I `spect to hear the rustle of bills, piled high as a mountain, as you dig deep and deeper in your hearts to give thanks, express devotion, and buy what the mall can't sell.
Like I've been elevated in status, so have each of you, my humble parishioners;
so if y'all want to wear a halo and wings in Heaven, I'll need y'all to whip out your checkbooks, tack on a few extra zeros, and contribute to my buildin' fund, `cause I could use a new roof and a few extra wings as well.
Amen! Hallelujah! Praise the Lord!

A Poet Needs Chutzpah 10 Word

Chutzpah is the unshakable foundation upon which poetic genius stands.

Chutzpah is the all encompassing Yiddish word for audacity, presumption, boldness, courage, guts, adventurousness, audaciousness, bravery, enterprise, fearlessness, nerve and venturesomeness.

I have to confess my balls are made out of chutzpah and my cock is carved out of rock.

A Sonnet For The Breathless

I met an insomniac through a Craigslist post

Who alleged: She'd stolen > 2000 hearts

On subways/escalators/sidewalks – men turn to toast

(By her gorgon glance, she boasts, even testicles depart) .

How does one ensnare one fashioned of nails and sap?

By invisibility, mirrored shield, winged boots, curved sword?

The heart's armor, thus arrayed, can easily entrap

This goddess, dreadlocked in her own umbilical cord.

But I do not stoop to conquer, but to please

This walking paradox, over-caffeinated, old soul

Intoxicated by words, music, auteurs (esp. Scorsese) ,

You're my aurora, glowing green, in the north celestial pole.

Slacker, artist, writer, words have escaped you:

You lay breathless at the foot of your wandering Jew.

A Woman In Ruins

Your fidgety feet have taken root.
Brambles thrust through your eyes,
Branches pierce the chambers of your heart,
Armies of insects revel in your dissolution,
Winnowed by the flight of swallows Who've found refuge in your yawn.
You are not dead, Contessa.
You are simply a woman in ruins,
Moldering in the same corruption
As you have since birth.

Beryl Dov

Abortion

You ripped my heart out with a wire hanger in the middle of our second trimester but I would not let go and dug my tiny fingers deep into your uterus, clutching desperate to my promise.
There, I calcified like alabaster, layer upon layer, like the gauze that swaddles the Pharaohs of the Nile.
You've carried me, your darkest secret, for fifty-one years,
never knowing the humanity I would bestow upon you,
the gift of my companionship to your infernal desolation,
my boundless daughterly love and, robbed of this bounty,
you were condemned to straggle the earth,
not as a mother, but as a coffin,
a walking coffin,
better off dead,
like me.

Actual Nigerian Spam Letter (O.K., With A Couple Of Tweaks)

I am Barrister Culbert Nnanyemugo Akon, Head of the Legal Department of the Central Bank of Nigeria. I come from a well respected family as my father was the green monkey responsible for being point zero of the AIDS HIV-1 virus. My mother was a simple bitch from Lagos born with the ass markings of a baboon in heat and holds the Guinness Book of World Records record for performing the world's fastest backbend while eating a banana. There are many shapeshifters and statesman in my renown family including my nephew and pop singer, Aliaune Damala Bouga Timme Puru Nacka Lu Lu Lu Badara Akon. Akon has often thanked me for inspiring his platinum single I'm So Paid featuring Lil Wayne and Young Jeezy. I can send you an autographed copy Mp3 at your request for only $9.99 plus shipping and handling.

I am obliged to contact you on the matter concerning your payment based on the information contained in your payment release and settlement as I am set to change all that and ensure that this time your fund will be paid unfailingly without you going through so much stress.

Of particular mention is an unresolved legal impediment to your payment. I consider it a grave oversight and an unhealthy practice if this has not been brought to your notice. There is a petition filed against your payment by a legal firm, Nwakanma Okoro & Co Chambers. Any action towards the resolution of your payment will amount to a total waste of time and resources unless this petition is cleared. Chief Nwakanma Okoro of Nwakanma Okoro & Co Chambers are making counter claims to the same payment in favour of their client, Vlad Twilight Engineering Ltd of Transylvania. This petition has been filed to the Federal Ministry of Justice Goes to the Higher Bidder, the Presidency, the Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) , Senate Committee on Foreign Payment and Such Matters and all other irrelevant Ministries. I will thus, advice you to stop running from pillar to post as that will not help you out of this mess. I am willing to use my position in the Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) , my legal background and celebrity contacts to nullify this petition. I personally know Pitbull. He tossed me one of the hot b*tches in his three hot b*tch entourage at my nephew Akon's 40th birthday party. I have the back scratches to prove it.

I am persuaded by my Christian leaning and fairness to a fellow human being and my Class III Disempathetic Sociopathic tendencies to help you out of this ugly and unhealthy situation if only you will permit me to do so. I could retrieve and nullify this petition, give it the necessary legal documentation and backing and finally ensure that the Federal Ministry of Justice Goes to the Higher mandates the Central Bank of Nigeria to release your funds. All this will take just one week depending on your response and your fund will be in your account. We have already prepared a certified checks issued by the Central Bank of Nigeria for $9900 more than the actual amount due you. Please promptly send us a certified check for this $9900 difference to insure our checks clearance. We'll also need you all your bank account numbers, date of birth, mother's maiden name and passwords to guarantee our funds reach you as soon as possible.

Do not doubt my capability but be informed that you are not paying me for my legal services. My only humble request is that you should take my son, Akon's poor cousin, Azikiwe Okotie-Eboh Nzeogwu Dimka Jomo-bomo Okadigbo Ironsi Ezekwesili Gbadamosi Olanrewaju Akon, out of this rough and troubled country to your country for a greener pasture after you might have received your fund. My son wants to be a cowboy. Perhaps, with your kindness and the help of Saviour Lord Jesus, you can find him a merchant banking job on Wall Street. If you want my help, for further deliberation and action send email to

I believe your nightmare will be over if you are ready to adhere to my advice on the way forward in retrieving this payment.

God Bless,
Barrister Culbert Nnanyemugo Akon

Alchemists Of Anomalies

Your defiant lightness belies the Cimmerian with mystical radiance that braids lust with will and spawns in enigma
the Davidic lineage of deliverance.

Matriarchs of the Messiah,
you are the anomalies of Ararat, gravid arks nesting in the barren ice, compelled to seed the earth with possibility.
You are Ruth uncovering Boaz' feet on the threshing floor,
you are Tamar, righteous whore and seductress of Judah,
you are Lot's daughter, incestuous temptress of your father.
You are all the beginning and the end,
foremost alchemists of anomalies, transforming the deluge of desire into the crown of redemption.

[CHORUS]

We didn't start the fire, but we still shvitz and we perspire,

But when the business is gone, it will burn on, and on, and on...

'cause we Jews got the chutzpah, we got the endurance to collect, and collect, and collect...on the million dollar fire insurance.

(Off stage whisper) 'So, boychik, you vanna know how to make a flood? '

Inspired by Billy Joel's, 'We Didn't Start the Fire', and based on a bubbe-meise and a nigun by Reb Shlomo Carlebach. Vot, you think I got time to explain all these Yiddishisms to you? Vot do I look like, Magaret Mead?

O.K., O.K., I'll explain the punchline at least:

Two old Jewish men are sitting on a park bench. They get to talking and realize they knew each other a long time ago.

'So, ' says the first, 'how's business? '

'Well, ' the second says, 'to be honest, things weren't going so well for quite a while. But wouldn't you know it? There was a fire and when the insurance paid off, I had enough to retire! '

'Really? Congratulations! ' said the first, and patted his friend on the back.

'Actually, that's kind of funny.'

'How's that? '

'Well you see, my business wasn't doing so well either. Then about two years ago, there was a flood and when the insurance paid off, I had enough to retire also! '

'You don't say? ' replied his friend thoughtfully. 'How do you make a flood? '

And They Lived Happily Ever After...(Rant)

If you take no notice your first baby was stillborn
if you forget your diagnosis of Stage 3A breast cancer and side effects of chemo if you deny the senseless death of your parents killed by a drunk driver if you ignore that your Prince now has more hair on his butt than on his head and has an inoperable brain tumor the size of his balls if you overlook your addictions to Oxycodone, Ambien, sex, alcohol, chocolate, tobacco, caffeine, internet, shopping and Breaking Bad if you reject the fact you left in your tampon while having sex and didn't notice if you evade the insult of being congratulated on being pregnant when you're not if you omit that you accidentally dropped an entire box of fabric softener sheets in with your laundry your farts smell like Bounce if you pooh- pooh the fact that Citibank bounced a check that was 35 cents short then charges you a $25 service fee if you are oblivious to being stuck behind a funeral procession of someone you hated all your life and the dead fucker still pissing you off if you look the other way about getting a paper cut then stubbing your toe looking for a Band-Aid and removing the Band-Aid wrapper gives you another paper cut if you bury one's head in sand about your birthday just happening to fall on 9/11

Angels Vs. Fools 10 Word

Au contraire: Angels rush in where fools fear to tread.

au contraire ~ (oh kon-TRAIR) noun

On the contrary.

[From French au contraire (on the contrary) .]

On the face of it, there seems no reason to prefer au contraire to 'on the contrary'. The meaning is obvious whether it's expressed in French or English. True, the French version is two words rather than three but the saving is minimal and beside the point. The value of au contraire, therefore, lies with the slightly camp context in which it's usually found. An earnest argument demands 'on the contrary', but an opposing point of view, not meant too seriously and delivered with a flap of the wrist or a raised eyebrow, justifies au contraire.

Antigone In The Mall Of America Bootlegged Calypso Choristers

Multiplex into octets of Rasta gangbangers Across Megatropolis' seven neon gates.
Rollerbladers slam righteous heads
With tyrannous decree.

In the foodcourt's hanging garden
Dangling with marbleized blutwurst
Polynices bones are exhumed
By Suburbia's sale scavengers Against Antigone's Attic wails:

'When the habit of our freedom
Clashes against the dream
Then eternal moral law overrides
The temporal laws of malls and men.
Just pump up the volume and jump.
Permit me to die Sheherazade's death
Reflected in one thousand and one convex mirrors
Where objects are closer than they appear.'

Someone call security!
A teenage girl has jumped from the foodcourt balcony
Joined by her lover, Haemon- and his mom, Eurydice!
Lament your stupidity, bemoan your misfortune later.
Remove the bodies quickly.
We must not upset the other shoppers.
'Ten-four.'

Going South 10 Word

When things worsen in the South, do they 'go North? '

'Go South' (verb, third-person singular simple present goes south, present participle going south, simple past went south, past participle gone south) (idiomatic) To become unfavorable; to take a turn for the worse.

'I should have walked away from the casino when my luck went south, but I stayed and ended up in the hole.'

'He was unconcerned that his health might turn south.'

'Yesterday the stock market moved south, ending up on a loss for the day. Afterward, when company profits had ventured a bit too far southward, the CFO began to get nervous.'

Gorilla

I see you strumming at your Tagore

Thoughtfully picking at the vowels and intents

As you pluck your serious I-talian who stands

Mesmerized by the glitter on your passion

(Gift wrapped in the Victorian black lingerie

Which lingers beneath your Sunday best) .

I imagine when you were not quite two (but as terrible as Ivan) your mother propped you at the dining table on an unabridged edition of Guerra e Paz she never read;

You banged your silver spoon on the blue porcelain plate

As she recklessly flew the strained apple mush

In your mouth like a botched Aérea Portugal landing.

Even toothless you thought, 'Other men will sit still

Like stray dogs on the church steps, basking in the lazy

Heat of the splintered sun, spittle on the edges of their

Flews dried like Dead Sea salts, while their poor wives,

Day old tarts from the erotic bakery, whisper behind

Their French tipped nails of their affairs with Brazilians,

Filthy laundresses, buxom bar maids and bitches -

But not me. Not Maria! One day I'll find a man

I can count on - an abacus with a good heart.'

Now, how many abacuses will you keep on the leash,

Tethered like cormorants, scraping at their collars?

If they escape will they swallow you whole, digest you,

Bones and all like a komodo? That's what you truly

Want, isn't that right? To be ravished, to be consumed

With rapacious hunger, to be one with your bashert,

In his niche, two hearts beating as one to the beat

Of your silvery spoon, until the cows come home.

Remember there is a man that will pull the burrs

From your hair despite the scars they leave behind.

A man who will claw through the Ursa Major to bring

You a strand of pearls made of unseen stars.

He will climb the Empire State Building and swat at planes that try to rip you from his furry grasp.

I can't let you go; leave the cage open for your gorilla.

I Promise

Look only into my eyes when we make love for if your glance should stumble elsewhere

you will see not me but my deformities, the misshapen amalgam that is me without you.

In loving you, you've rendered me perfect, whole, rectified, an unblemished Adonis to your Dawn.

Your eyes need never stray beyond mine,

for in their rheumy orbs you shall behold

Jump Starting Creativity Lesson 120

Beryll Dov's Jumpstarting Creativity: Lesson 120
Keep your nose away from the grindstone.

That is, of course, unless you want a flat nose. Workaholism is not the formula for creative success. Work holism is the formula for stress, anxiety, divorce, insomnia, emotional and physical exhaustion. To think creatively you must balance work and play. Don't feel guilty about not working. You've heard the adage: All work and no play make Jack a dull boy. Let me update that aphorism to: Give Jack some slack or Slacking beats hacking. Tell the guilt creditors that leisure is creative incubation. Even if it's not, it's still fun! Work hard when you've got the flow; play hard when you got nothing to show. Hey look, I'm fucking Johnny Cochran!

Living Her Life

At D. H. Lawrence's grave, a small white chapel set amid the mountains of Taos,
she recites a passage
from Lady Chatterley's Lover,
"A woman has to live her life, or live to repent not having lived it."
Later, at the Adobe Bar
she clutches a Cuervo Gold and listens to Segovia,
surrounded by Zapata's men and photographs of Lawrence,
living her life,
her life,
between sips of Gold.

Multi-Talented 10 Word

Unfortunately,
multi-talented individuals arouse suspicion and jealousy in single-talented people.

Talented

She talks as much to obliterate the silences
she creates by stopping as to talk:
'God, who art in heaven,
where's my sharp tongue
that's launched a 1000 quips - why hast Thou forsaken me? '
She is at a loss for words, she fidgets all night
and sleeps on eggshells.

He listens

more to entrap with a tabula rasa
than to hear.
Elusive, he circles
like an eagle
above it all.
Powerful talons,
retracted in his feet,
stand ready to pounce
on her misspoken words.
'Gotcha! '

On a nearby cliff
he alights besides a nest
where excited eaglets clamor for words.
In measured teaspoons
he regurgitates her

misspoken words
into their tiny beaks which hunger more for his kiss
than sustenance.
Their belly's bloated they sleep sated
with dreams of flying -
while he never sleeps;
he forever dreams awake.
Talented, majestic, vigilant
he sits on his lonely crag and scans the endless horizon for his next kill.

To a poet a flower can be

into palpable reality;
it is a confetti forest

It's not what you know, it's who you know.

Networking is a lever that can lift your creative endeavors to new levels. An idea, a new song, a better mousetrap that exists in a vacuum will die from oxygen deprivation and neglect. Businessmen ~ contact trade or professional associations; actors and songwriters ~ attend events or parties that put you in contact with producers; carpenters and home-builders ~ you know the drill; poets and writers ~ practice on a banana, because unless you're prepared to give some serious head to publishers, you're Mickey-Mouse career is going nowhere. Become a heretic.

Orthodox thinking is nothing but mutually accepted bias; orthodox ideas, nothing more than implied consensus. Kick some politically-correct ass; the litmus test of heretical writing is that it's irreverent, provocative, witty, funny and either puts a smile of your face or makes you think deeply by bringing an inconvenient truth into the light. Wait a minute..wait a minute! I think I know a writer on Hello Poetry who practices that kind of heresy...
