Love

everyone always told me that love is too strong to say when they know that person is a faker but to me i still don't know what love is cuz i always get hurt by someone that told me that they love me...to the other people always told me it a love story cuz they found the one but they say take it by step by step then rushing in to the to find someone to hold me and love me and tell me everything is oh okay

Marriage

marriages is for people that are in love. some people get married because the guy is in the military because he got the money and got married because they think they found the right person but finding out they hit you and leave marks on you. what do you have to do so you cover them up, so people dont think your husband is hitting. so people act like their happy so you cant see their true colors. person always think if the guy is like 50 year old and the girl is like 20 year old the girl are gold diggers. how would you know. you dont know how the guy feels about the girl and how the girl feel about the guy. its not all about the money. its about if you know that he is the one you wouldnt cheat or lie to him. trust is a big part of a relationship. i had a problem of trusting someone. when my husband when to the birg i thought he wouldnt love me the same way. i had his friend potter keeping my head up and all. when he came out he told me he was truly in love with me. my husband was confused if he love me or not but he found his feeling when you know that the person is the right one for you dont wait until its to late to tell them. be on the ball and be ready to say what you feel because if you dont it might be to late

When Someone Say They Love You when they say they love you do they mean like they saythey do how do you really know if they really mean it it's no in their eyes it's not in their hands the only way you will know it's in their kiss if they kiss you for a very long time they mean really mean it if they kiss you for a hour they mean it so so if they kiss you for least then a minute they really don't mean it
