

Poetry Series

Corrisa Pelton
- poems -

Publication Date:
2007

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Corrisa Pelton(11/5/1990)

I have started to write poems when I found out about my grandmother who to me is my role model. She wrote some of the most amazing poems my dad said. So now when I get a good idea for a poem I write it down and go to town.

Girl

I geuss a girl can take so much pain,
before she snaps,
I geuss I was sick of him controlling me,
I geuss it wasn't love,
If one gets hurt and the other doesn't care,
To me I loved him and gave my heart to the devil,
In return he got my trust,
And I got the pain with the yelling,
I just snapped.

Corrisa Pelton