

Poetry Series

DONYELL CLAIBORNE
- poems -

Publication Date:
2005

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

DONYELL CLAIBORNE(08/24/1980)

God's Word

The words of a man is useless
but the words of God brought forth light.
Have faith in God he will but have faith in man he might.
For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son.
For man so loved the world
until he has forgotten what Jesus done.
The words of a man can deceive
but the words of God you can believe.
Tell God you life threaten problems he'll stay but tell them to man he'll leave.
God's definition of knowledge is found in the Bible.
Man's definition of knowledge
is money and power.
If you have to go through trails and tribulations
it's going to be heard.
There's no man alive in this world can stop God'S word.

DONYELL CLAIBORNE

If Beauty Was

If beauty was a mystery
then you would be the clue.
Because I've never seen anyone as beautiful as you.
You are a very rare rose
with a very divine aroma.
The perfume from your body brings me out the depths of my coma.
Your presence is like a strong elixir that leaves intoxicated to the highest point of intoxication.
The escalation of this situation needs to under evaluation.
Because this element of emotions
no scientist can explain.
If beauty was a law
then yours would reign.
Your smile eliminates my pain
and leaves me in a complete dazzle state.
If good things with time
then you're worth the wait.
If beauty was a song
then you would be the lyrics
I'd have a front row seat
just dying to hear it.
If beauty was
then you'd be all it's possibilities and so much more.
Your beautification isn't just physical it's to your core.

DONYELL CLAIBORNE