

Poetry Series

Jesus Chameleon
- poems -

Publication Date:
2013

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Jesus Chameleon(December 22,1973)

Jesus Chameleon is a new, an American, and a Catholic poet who has been reviewed by the Poetry Society of America (PSA) and the Academy of American Poets. This Catholic author's first book of unpublished poetry entitled, Friending (A Collection of Poems) was accepted for consideration, but did not win one of the 2011 PSA National Chapbook Fellowships, a prestigious annual PSA poetry competition. The official Facebook page for Jesus Chameleon is at

'A Creative, Bright Dual' (Limerick 1)

A second still better upon base
Did still chase wholesome dreams to do vase.
Mind in tune with the son,
Tiger, too, loves the fun!
Both carved Him out of this rocky place.

Jesus Chameleon

'All Saints (Reprise) '

For me do pray for
When leaves fall to Him for me
Holy one to God

Praying
To Him leaves fall
To Mr. God, to the Saints

Praying to Our God
The leaves fall all autumn long
To Him through the Saints

Jesus Chameleon

'Wind'

Wind

I can see it coming

The grass is parting

Wind

Jesus Chameleon