

Poetry Series

Kiana Valdez
- poems -

Publication Date:
2010

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Kiana Valdez()

I am a student, and I like to write poems for fun... I hope you like them. :)

A Piece Of Heaven

The delicate chilled surface indented as I took a bite
I felt a coolness ooze down my throat
Filled to capacity with nuts, sprinkles, and chocolate raisins

Oh! What delight!

The taste of vanilla and chocolate swirl filled my mind
And suddenly I was in a whole new place
My own escape, freedom of the world past

Oh! What delight!

Next, I heard the crunch of the waffle cone
The perfect shape crumbling against my teeth
Then it was over and I was back to reality

Oh! It was truly a delight!

Kiana Valdez

Bad Days

When you lose your keys
When you hurt your knees
When the sun don't shine
When you wait in line
When your heart gets broken
When you lose your token

Bad Days come and go
But when they do come... just go with the flow! ! !

Kiana Valdez

Dogs Can Cry Too

Grief will hurt us all. It won't ever stop.
No matter who you are, you can feel grief.
Sometimes it hurts so bad that you can die yourself, or at least feel close to dying.
But humans aren't the only ones that feel, dogs can cry too. A loss of a partner, a lifetime friend, isn't so 'lifetime' at all.
It is a pain that shoots deep inside you.
As if it is eroding in your heart.
A pain that feels like it won't go away.
Death of someone can hurt a family.
Death of someone can tear up a household.
You may think that dogs cannot feel like us,
But you are wrong, because dogs can cry too.

Kiana Valdez

Hallway Horror

The loud bell sounds
And the cattle are let loose
A stampede of people

Going, Going, Going to their destination
Quick, Fast, Hurried, almost running

Don't dare try to stop
Or even pause for a second
Or else the stampede will run you over

Fast, Faster, Fastest the people go as the time is running out
Ring, Ding, Ring goes the bell

And the once crowd hallways are silent

Kiana Valdez

High School Sonnet

This past year has gone by really quickly.
Just hope I can make my summer last.
Next year I will go to a new High School.
I will make new friends and I'll have a blast.
It is going to be very scary, for me. But I guess I will have to try.
I wonder what the people will be like.
Will they make me laugh? Will they make me cry?
I am curious how the teachers will be. Are they very kind? Are they super mean?
I guess I am going to have to wait.
Until I become in the grade over
Eight. But I still get very scary thoughts.
Hopefully that school is the best for me.

Kiana Valdez

My Dream

□

A day in the future

A day in the sun □

A day just to play and have some fun

A place where kindness always abounds

Where its people always sleep goodly and sound

A heart and a life no man can take away

Where no one cares what's the time or the day

Lions and bears will be so kind

You could count all the millions of stars in the sky

A place where no one has to die

Where hospitals and doctors all go bye -bye

This was my dream that I had yesterday

I hope that dream will never go away

Kiana Valdez

Today We Are Living

The candles have been lighted
The song has been sung
The funeral that we are attending
Is not the last to come
Although he is gone
Let's not put a fret
But live for today
Don't worry about debt

Kiana Valdez

When Someone You Love

When someone you love dies
It is like someone ripped out your heart
Every single part
Of you is broken
When someone you love cries
You cry with them too
Be into their shoes
As if you were them
When someone you love laughs
It's easy to laugh too
A joke, a riddle, and a pun or two
It really easy to laugh
When someone you love dances
You dance along
Even if no song
Is playing
The truth is we need the people we love
Around us all times
To help us dance, laugh, cry, and also
To be there when someone else you love dies

Kiana Valdez