To My Friend

Shattered your dreams were like sand

But why did you chose that way, I don't understand

Your soul was tired and worn like threads on the screw

And you shot an arrow into the blue

You thought it was the right way

You thought it would turn the night into day

I hope you have found your love again

I hope you are free of your fears and pain

One day you will tell me, why did you chose this end

Why? My friend.
