

Poetry Series

Larry Scroggins Jr.
- poems -

Publication Date:
2009

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Larry Scroggins Jr.()

A Bond

Moved from a familiar home to a unfamiliar house
and had to fit in.

On the top of all this hellish movement
I find that im pregnant,
Well as a girl would put it growing obese.

Going to get the love of my life, which is the hardest to do.
You know the feeling of building
all that suspense of waiting hurts,
He's not here.

Pregnancy is one thing,
getting breaks from everything is like ending the world for me.

The baby! I'm so excited!
And will be thrilled when this
Bundle of joy is born October 3rd.

Well for that idea I can say goodbye.
My baby died, so im dead well in feelings.
Not one soul will play around with my Emotions. R.I.P my baby

Larry Scroggins Jr.