

Poetry Series

LaShawna Brewster
- poems -

Publication Date:

2006

Publisher:

Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

LaShawna Brewster(2/14/90)

How Do I Say It

I don't know how to say what I feel
Don't know how to deal
Just can't take any more
All I do is sit around and watch the rain pour
Late at nights when you ain't here
My hearty is filled with nothing but despair
Wondering where you went
And how your day was spent
The love I had for you was beyond this world
Yet, you still out probably with another girl
Bringing me all this pain over and over again
Making me wanna just lose it and go insane
My heart's broken, torn in two
All because of you
I wanna let go and let my real feelings show
Something's holding me back, what is it I need to know! !
Well I think it's time that I move on
And stop living the life of a sad love song
I'm givin my love away to someone who cares
Gettin rid of all fear, and goodbye tears
For all this sadness is soon to be gone
Because this girl is now movin on

LaShawna Brewster

How Much I Love You

Sitting here in the dark thinking bout you
I regret all the times I lied about cheating on you
Missing your sweet lips
And the way we used to kiss
The way you would hold me tight
When I was afraid in the night
The way you used to wipe my tears
I would never forget those days
You were always there for me in my time of need
You were ike the strong ground, where I would plant my seed
I remember the way you called me baby
And said that I would always be your special lady
I wanted to have your kids to show how much I love you
And i swore no one would ever be above you
Cheating on you was my biggest mistake
If I could take back one mistake it's that one I would
If I could have you for one more day beleive me I wish I could
I'm writing this poem to show all my love
And please come back to me
I'm praying to the one above

LaShawna Brewster