

Poetry Series

Martin Nash
- poems -

Publication Date:
2005

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Martin Nash(27TH OCTOBER 1961)

MARTIN IS AN ARTIST, SINGER/SONGWRITER AND POET WITH HIS OWN GALLERY AND A SHARE IN A RECORDING STUDIO IN NORTHAMPTON ENGLAND. MOST OF HIS MORE ADVENTUROUS STYLES ARE INITIALLY POEMS, ESPECIALLY THE ABSTRACT AND SURREAL PIECES.

HAPPIEST WORKING ON BRITAINS COASTLINE ESPECIALLY CORNWALL, MARTIN PRODUCES A NEW PIECE DAILY AND SHOWS ALL AROUND THE COUNTRY AND IN NORWAY.

YOU CAN SEE HIS WEBSITE AT

ALSO YOU CAN HEAR HIS LYRICS AND MUSIC AT:

Thank you for reading this profile.

Departure

This must be one of the quietest places on earth, in between the occasional rotor - rumble of the enthusiastic helicopter pilot and the biggles lookalike in his ancient bi-plane.

Ripples in the clearest of clear water made by swans,
is enough to interfere with this commendable tranquility.

This is where we walk,
where we put to right all daily woes and incessantly talk,
I will miss you, just as I would miss this,
my friend, when I need your ear, I will meet you here.

Martin Nash

From The Look In Her Eyes

It started by fate, this love of ours, blessed by Cupid's shot.
Infatuation, a tangled web, I say, it certainly is not.
For now we have vision too and voices over phone lines,
Technology forged a bond for us in the shortest of all times.

Now i'm in so deeply, promising the world and more,
Hoping I can fulfill my promise, who knows whats left in store?
For me her love is central, to everything I do,
Dear Bodil may I take this chance to show my love for you.

Martin Nash