

Poetry Series

Megan Loralee Seelye
- poems -

Publication Date:

2006

Publisher:

Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Megan Loralee Seelye(April 12th,1957)

I first started writing when I was 12. I found that when I write, I lose myself in my characters and explore all new worlds. My writing is out of pure expression of my own heart. The stories I tell are the dreams of lives I would love to live, without boundaries or rules. I find inspiration in all things my family, friends, my pets past and present and most highly in the lord. I hope you will find that I have touched on my life lessons and experience in my work and would hope for you to gain only the best knowledge I can pass on. Take these lessons and strive with them. Remember, life isn't always what you take, it's what you give back that matters and judge a person by their appearance. Let me give you what I have in my heart, through the words on these pages. The 'Ode To Patsy' was to my first dog. Who, I had for 15 years. To this day it still causes me pain. And I wish to keep her memory alive as best a person can.

Ode To Patsy

When the sun shines through the trees,
I will think of you.
In the rustle of the leaves,
I will think of you.
You're my faithful loving friend,
I will love you to life's end.
When the stars no longer shine,
I will think of you.

I see the rainbow in the sky,
And I know that by and by,
We'll be together my old friend,
Walking hand in hand.
I know that when this life is o'er,
We'll be together on that shore.

Megan Lorelee Seelye