Bounty Of Beauty

It is the thought,
Which I sought;
And at last of divine's wrought,
I came near, ne'er in shame,
Full of faith's flame to dedicate the fame,
When my Lord;
Made me mad...
With whimsical of o'erwhelming, o'erflowing
Love, full of tender, splendor and grace glowing,
Blooming with mirth,
I wander in wonder on Earth?
But God in me will sing,
Makes my notes, flee with magic wing;
Dower meed to holy heed, and deliverance thou bring.

For the soul to console
Let us forget and forgive;

Hark! holy only will suffer, atlast attains wisdom thro' faith.

Life Is A Wave Of Ocean

The life becomes, and because of miracle, debacle, and pinnacle,
where the silent soul move to love,
The one near the nectar, all and love to prove,
Ne'er to hurt the life, e'er to heal...
But the bud of jocund blooms as boon;
Whithal of whimsical melody surging to sing soon,
Let my life's chalice ne'er taste the malice: -
E'er fills with those ambrosial divine's miracle.

Making the traveller to sleep on it's lap,

Those hot rays to make the day good,
And it is our great greet, when heart beats towards harmony's map.
