

Poetry Series

Nayesha Major
- poems -

Publication Date:
2009

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Nayesha Major(January 18,1983)

I'm 26 years old and just living life to it's fullest. I have been writing poetry since the age of 14. I find it to be a good stress reliever and you can say any and everything you want. I feel like when I write someone somewhere is going through the same emotions that are expressed in my poetry and don't know how to put it into words. I love that my poetry makes people laugh, makes people cry, and just makes you think. I was born in Newark, NJ and moved to North Carolina when I was 4 years old. ALL of my family is in Jersey so that is where home is for me! I have a little boy who is my pride in joy I love him to pieces.

I Am!

I'm so tired of being lied to
The messed up part is I use to be just like you
Doing what I wanted to do, I had a man work off my time
But at the rate I was going a good man I would not find
I'm a pretty woman; who's tired of being yanked around
I guess it's time to speak up; its time to stand my ground
Why do I feel Iike I have to beg just to get some QT
Do I make you beg when it's time to touch the booty!
I feel like I'm a prisoner and this relationship is the jail
Sometimes I feel I should go in my own direction; it's time to make my bail!
What am I suppose to do; sit at home, watch a movie, make myself a drink
I am a woman, I am human, what am I suppose to think
Should I start going places and coming back when I want too
Or should I stay and make things work cause I really want to be with you
The ball is in your court and there is 10 seconds left in the game
If this relationship falls apart; I won't be the one to blame

(Friday August 31,2007)

Nayesha Major