Educational aims of Q.E.L.C. Language Centre:

He had worked as a part-time tutor at Department Of English at Yangon University Of Hlaing Campus{R.C 2 } from 1984 to 1995,

He wants to help kids to think for themselves in a critical and humanistic way through teaching English as a second or foreign greatest aim is to make kids know that education is life long learning and having an informed choice in a critical attitude, reflecting their own experiences and others' experiences and opinions-learning by doing things and learning by critically interactive with others, experssing their own opinions, building up self esteem in the learning community and existing society. I want to know more about how developed countries are building up educational community compared to a country like Myanmar and from that educational and international experiences, he can have more energy to build up, i would say, a democrative, open and critical community through the classroom and reflecting and contemplating on daily experiences.

He would like to train teachers to be more effective and critical for the community they work for, too.

So he had also given educational workshops for teachers for English at British Council and American centre workshops since 1999.

He had done some poetry readings and performances for some schools in Yangon such as international school yangon and alliance française, Yangon.

About Nyein Way's poems: All his poems are about the bridges alternative realities are the basic humanities are fragmented in any situations, realities are multifaceted beings and poetry is made through life as bridges for peace, humanity and intellectual growth.

He said "I never write poems under the category 'Politics and my poems are 3 As being and becoming apolitical, astronomical and apoetic crossing many a boundaries in the arts and culture zone as a a cuttibg~ edge" postconceptual balance of life, intelligence & multitude in time of peace, harmony & wisdom."

Inspirations: Gertrude Stein, Beckett, John Cage, Jackson Mac Low, Zukofsky, Alan Ginsberg, Frank O'hara, Charles Bernstein, Kenneth Goldsmith, ancient asian poets and poetics, Htayrawada buddhism's Pathana texts which manifest 24 machineries existing and connecting to reveal causes and effects and to self-realize the conceptual liberation and to know and to reflect conceptualization process, any cartoons and animated characters and children literature and everyday life of ordinary people psychological, philosophical and poetic realization upon realities of alternative dreamers of no dreams standing in the air walking into the deep forests of haymalayyas sitting on the sofas of subtle form changing clouds voicing the silence of wisdom-mediated experiences in meditative channel of mind inventiveness of language, sign and image digging the deepest mind of darkness do you understand it, my friend? ? ? ?

Delaying a difficult poem is that of delaying and deconstructing intertextuality of textual poetics of normalcy of radiating light of truth-moving flexibility for survival of meaningful emptiness with no ego or egoistic obsessiveness of meanings in the limits of language beyond the limits of language made of post-conceptual simplicities in impossibilities of infinite life forms during making poetry post-enlightenment studio of happenings I am breathing in and breathing out now a mindfulness upon sensationalized of diversified directions of atoms as poetry materiality this is a post-conceptual explanatory community of human condition my mum is a good narrator of buddhist myths and her life stories which make me conceptual/postconceptual poet of multi-universal truths her smiles are noble silence of her truths and her philosophy of life my mum died at age 65 her friend cried for her merits done by mum but she is still alive in the service of virtues for life done by us a beauty of smiles in the mountains of love and compassion for humanity my mum is truly just an ordinary person writing poetry of her own experiences by serving others' goodness and wellness which makes me understand what quality of life is meant in humanity for all mankind and energises me to be a poet of multi-universes by metta (loving kindness in pali language) and compassion

Post-Apocalyptic Poetics In 21st Century post-apocalyptic poetics had been distinctly composed of global understanding and self-realization upon the values of aesthetic and experiential nodes as follows:

al humanity with global ethics of truths and social-individual values on changing life forms on science and spirituality of human kinds as civilizational integrations ha, loving kindness a, compassion tha, having good will on others' success ha, having balanced mind to events g sympathy and empathy as life-long educational practice temporary life as experimental poetry and temporariness of beings and events irry across borders racial discrimination on social justice and social responsibilities normality as human conditions in existential freedom
