I am a teacher who loves to write poetry. I have a wonderful son and an extremely smart and beautiful daughter who also loves poetry.

Fragile

Do not hurt me because I am fragile
I will break easily like shattered pieces of glass

Do not speak in loud voices because I am afraid
I am frightened of your harsh tones and crude words

Do not hit me again because I bruise easily
The wounds are deeper than the scars on my skin

Do not hurt me I am fragile
