

Poetry Series

prakash rao sunchu
- poems -

Publication Date:
2013

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

prakash rao sunchu(01/08/1957)

A Government Officer in Hyderabad, Andhra Pradesh, India

Eternal Energy

the Sun, the Moon in the sky
The flame and fire on earth
Visible forces reflecting invisible energy Energizing the mass within As microcosm and macrocosm outside

Invoke the energy inside
Which is subtle in movement
Turns physical in creation, development and destruction Awakens the impulse eternal That moves up and down the physical framework

The mortal framework that decides Physical connection on the earthy life
Has no meaning in the journey eternal Which is constant and continuous Through mass, energy, time and space

prakash rao sunchu

Living Choice

Its deep in heart that felt repeatedly about a being in time and space that follow the laws of nature Betwixt the stimulus and response a space and time that can defy the nature and destiny defines the state of being in the form of choice

Choice lies before us at every moment in life to chart the direction of life Else the chance will takeover the course subordinating to the flow of nature

With choice in your hand begin the passion to reach the destiny Raise the motivation to be better Unleash the talents required That take the life towards evolution pushing the human race ahead of the present existence

prakash rao sunchu

Monotonous Life

Feeling repetitive and monotonous life chores
People at differing wavelengths Keep making some thought waves
That either repeat or duplicate the human consciousness
From the beginning of life
And evolution through streams of reason

Animal instincts has nothing more in majority Than satiating the insatiable carnal desire Exciting the nerves through emotions Without a hint of the ultimate

There is no urge left in this life of new age
To search for an existence Beyond its physical urges Thus taking the human thought to the next level
From its evolution until the moment

prakash rao sunchu

Mortal Frame

Raised from elements inanimate Animates a thought and an emotion Lives this frame to the extent of deterioration
To the penetrating refinement Life doth take limited time Racing itself to the ground into ashes

In search of permanent vehicle of happiness
That is stable through mass and space
With a constancy of purpose
Through birth to death
The core being through lifetime misery to the mortal frame

The passion that reaches the source Becomes one with everything Stands between antimatter and matter In waiting to create or destroy the universe at will

prakash rao sunchu

Rein In Heaven

Christmas is a day that everyone reins in heaven
The religion with simple principles proved powerful enough to penetrate across the religions and geographies paved the way for unity in humanity through the love, passion and sacrifice of a human unparalleled in the history of mankind May this day be the beginning of an harmony between the life, nature and universe

prakash rao sunchu