

Poetry Series

Samantha Slone
- poems -

Publication Date:
2011

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Samantha Slone(01/09/1985)

Framed In Hugs And Kisses

Our first date, waiting anxiously for your arrival.
Popcorn, a movie, and great conversation
The night ends and you walk me to the door
Hand in Hand, Side by side, Framed in hugs and kisses.

Our wedding day, I'm walking down the aisle
Tears, love, family, and friends all around
The reception ends and we walk out of the church
Hand in hand, Side by side, Framed in hugs and kisses.

Our first child, the joy of a new life begins
Changing diapers, constant whining, and midnight feedings.
We turn out the light and walk to our room
Hand in hand, Side by side, Framed in hugs and kisses.

Now you're gone, Grief overcomes my life
heart-break, tears, and memories begin to overwhelm.
One glorious day we shall meet at those golden gates
Forever Hand in hand, Side by side, Framed in hugs and kisses

Samantha Slone

Life With You

When your name is spoken my heart begins to ache.

Slowly I begin to drift back in time.

First kisses, midnight rendezvous, the smile in my heart from waking up to your beautiful eyes.

The touch of your hands gently caressing my skin, the feel of your breath on my ear as you whisper 'I Love You'

Then I am brought back to reality where everything is only a painful reminder of what once was.

Life with you was perfection, but life without you is unlivable..

Samantha Slone

True Love

As I'm sitting here all alone,
thoughts of you on my face they are shone,
Tears streaming down my face,
Memories of you cannot be replaced.
My heart aches from what should have been
Our love, everyone rated it a ten.
I feel like I cannot go on another day
my tears overwhelm as I lay
Your love no longer stays.
One day you will decide that you will never let our love die.
And as you lay alone tonight
I pray your memories cannot fight
Constant thoughts of me lying in your arms
Being with me shall do you know harm.
So when you gaze at the stars
Remember there is true love waiting for you and not very far

Samantha Slone