

Poetry Series

shannon mitchell
- poems -

Publication Date:
2009

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive shannon mitchell(october 3 1963)

Tuesday

i would never find another friend as much as i'd miss you i could never love again and not because i had the choice to because your name would say it all if i were to put you in words tuesday is this little girl and angel in disguise understanding all of me so i dont need any lies everyday i think of her she makes me cry with so much pride so loving and forgiving i wish i could dry her eyes daughter of mine i often think was born an angel after all that i have done to her she looks at me with no evil yet i call her my best friend because she will always be my little angel

shannon mitchell