

Poetry Series

Talib Deen
- poems -

Publication Date:
2013

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Talib Deen()

Tell Me Of A: Place.

Tell me of a place, where crying is: taboo and the glimpse of a smile is inevitable.

a place where there is no need to be thy brother's keeper, because there is no envy or hate to be protected from. a place where there is no keepers of the peace because the peace is the keeper of it's self.

a place where every one breaths and lives in harmony.

a place where bad emotions and incidents arn't welcome.

a place where we can lay our heads with out the fear of loosing our heads.

a place where there is no need to; care, because: perfection is the only perception.

a place where illness and death will never visit.

a place where all hearts beats the rhythm of love

a place where we'll never again say: good bye.

a place where we'll never again die

A PLACE WHERE ALL MYSTERIES ARE HISTORIES

Talib Deen