

Poetry Series

Teddy Crispin
- poems -

Publication Date:
2016

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Teddy Crispin()

My name is Teddy Crispin, writing has always been a passion for me, in 1985, I was present at the "Forum of Young Creators" in the "Poetry" category, an event organized by the French Information and Documentation Center for Youth: CIDJ.

In 1989, for my journalistic achievements, I was awarded the "Media Award In Your Country" by the International Union of Young Journalists of the Catholic Press.

In 1988, I was in the French Army where I was an "Opérateur Centraliste", and I even ended up with the accolade of First Class Soldier.

And today, I am pleased to share with you my book, DIX PETITS POEMES AND MORE published on Kindle eBook, ten little poems of mine and more, that will possibly make it around the world, and be to your liking.

Teddy Crispin

Some of my poems can be read here:

Best regards

in

Kurt Gerstein: (1905-1945)

And I haven't forgotten you, Brother, you, one of the victims of History. And I haven't forgotten you, Brother, you, one of the victims of History.

Decaux about your fate has told the real truth, when God and some very friends of you, kept the memory.

All those for whom you didn't die in vain.

His innocence, ô Lord, is not sham. His soul, pure, and his forehead radiant with pride, he walks through the air as he treads under foot all those poor evil-minded people who bring about traps for others.

For one cannot get rid of someone who has made his way through the light.

Teddy Crispin